News Notes

A woman of heart—another of pride—and a man who learned.

Lowell Court was a Magrath visitor on Sunday last.

Back stage on a talkie set where hearts are bared.

Solon Low and family spent the Xmas holidays in Calgary with relatives.

Geral Gibb who is teaching at Stirling, spent the Xmas holidays with relatives here.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Leo Vance, a baby boy New Year's Day. The first baby in the New Year for Raymond.

He dreamed of fame and learned to regret.

The dance on Friday night given by the Mutuals of the two wards was well attended and everyone had a fine time.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Cooper returned home Tuesday after spending a week with Mrs. Coopers mother in Stirling.

Welburn VanOrman displayed his artistic talent by a very nice Xmas scene in cut paper on the window of his father's home. The work was all done, and the scene an impressive Bible story.

A stepping fool who got wise—when it was too late.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dahl are leaving the end of this week to spend the remainder of the winter in Cardston doing Temple work. Mr. Dahl has charge of the Genealogical work in the Alberta Stake, and they may make their permanent home in Cardston.

You'll clock more laughs in "Big Time"—in every scene.

The old saying "It's an ill wind that blows no good," was verified Saturday when the C. P. R. was loaded over capacity with Lethbridge visitors who had hoped the road would be open. Two extra coaches were put on at Lethbridge for the return, one being dropped at Stirling and the other one going through to Cardston.

BASKETBALL RULES

In accordance with the wishes of the Provincial meeting of November 2nd, a referees meeting was held in Calgary on December 14th. Mr. W. S. Douglas of Edmonton, H. L. Seamans of Lethbridge and local representatives were in attendance. Points in connection with the interpretation of rules which most frequently cause difficulties were discussed and the following decisions were made:

It is necessary that referees, coaches, and players should be familiar with them.

The dribbler may hold his arms in any position as long as he does not make a deliberate attempt to ward off guard.

The greater responsibility in avoiding contact is placed upon the dribbler; however, a guard must not take advantage of this fact in checking the dribbler, and, if personal contact occurs, the referee must use his own discretion in determining who is responsible.

During a dribble, the ball may be batted into the air once, but when it comes to rest in one or both hands after such action, the dribble is completed.

Player must not hold out his arms to impede the progress of a player without the ball. If he impedes the progress of the dribbler by holding out his arms, he is committing a foul on the dribbler.

During a pivot, the pivot foot must be kept at its point of contact with floor.

Any check from the rear causing personal contact is a foul.

When the player coming in gets his hands on ball held by an opponent and the latter pivots, causing contact no foul shall be called unless there is unnecessary roughness on either side.

A player must not leave the court to complete a play. For so doing once or twice a violation shall be charged and he player warned. After that, a technical foul shall be called against the offender.

When the ball is withheld from play on account of a player being guarded unless the player is making a legitimate pivot, the ball shall be put in play after three seconds time.

When the ball is tossed up anywhere the jumpers must not touch ball a second time unless it is coming down inside the circle, or has touched floor or another player. Penalty—opposite side gets ball out of bounds.

SPECIAL—SPECIAL

Because of the numerous requests that have been made, the Capitol management has arranged for a return showing of NOAH'S ARK, for next Monday night only. Now folks, if you didn't see this feature during the Christmas week, see it now. You will enjoy it, we are sure; and if you don't see it, you will miss one of the best pictures ever made. See it SURE.

When a toss-up is necessary within the free throw lanes it must be made at the free throw line. Otherwise the toss up takes place at the point where the ball was when whistle was blown providing it is three feet inside the boundary line.

Two free throws shall be awarded for foul, if in the opinion of the referee a honest attempt is being made to shoot, whether or not the ball leaves the players hands.

Substitution may be made when a foul has been called providing such substitution is made before the ball is put on free throw line.

If possible, the officials should wear a white uniform, or blue trousers and white shirt.

The skating rink has been very popular during the past week, especially as the weather has been quite mild.

ARE YOU LICENSED?

If you haven't a radio license you had better get one. Every person who has a Radio Receiving Set, are required by Dominion Law to have a Radio License. If a Radio Inspector finds a set which is not licensed the owner of the set is subject to summary conviction from the Dept. of Marine and Fisheries, Ottawa the local Postmaster will get you one if you pay your dollar or they may be obtained from any R. HOTEL FOR RAYMOND

King Motors to fit up Splendid Show Room

The New Year, 1930, is off to a running start and portends 365 days of good, healthy growth following quite a building campaign during 1929 Raymond.

The entire block, where the Broadway Store, is now located, was sold this week by its owners T. O. and L. D. King, and Geo. W. Green of Lethbridge, to C. W. Brewerton and Sons for a sum running into five figures, and the upper floor will be re-modelled immediately into an up to date hotel.

Ever since the fire of a number of years ago, which burned down the Hotel building, everyone has felt the need of hotel accommodation. Several efforts have been made, but some obstacle always put the plan on it. Now, C. W. Brewerton and Sons, with the same enterprise and faith in the town that was behind the building of the commodious and luxurious Capitol Theatre, have launched out on a civic improvement in the purchase of this splendid block which will necessitate the immediate expenditure of considerable money in furnishings and re-modelling, with an extensive building program in line, as soon as the need arises. A number of changes are to be made at once and the building opened for hotel purposes as soon as possible.

This should be a decided step forward for Raymond, as with the A. C. the Sugar Factory, and the annual migration to the town for the winter makes Raymond a sort of headquarters for members of the travelling public, who no doubt will take advantage of this convenience and become better acquainted with Raymond.

Mr. King, Manager of King Motors has also announced a program of expansion for 1930, and the large room recently occupied by the Broadway Store, is to be fitted up for a show room and probably a rest room, and the ideal location and size of these quarters will be ideal for this purpose and will make King Motors a first-class garage in every particular. Mr. King is to be complimented for his enterprise and faith in Raymond.

All in all, 1930 looks like Raymond's big year. Let's all be boosters for a Bigger and Better Raymond. When you can't Boost, be quite and see the different sentiment and spirit we have regarding our home town at the end of 1930.

CORRESPONDENCE

Raymond, Alberta,
Dec. 30th, 1929.

The Raymond Recorder,
Raymond, Alta.

Dear Sir:—

A referees meeting will be held in Lethbridge on Saturday, January 4th. The meeting will be at the "Y" and will begin at 11 o'clock.

Recently a meeting of Provincial delegates was held in Calgary, Hod Seamans was our representative at that conference and he will lead the discussion at Lethbridge.

It is our desire to make this meeting a few hours of intense training qualify our officials to give better refereeing service.

There can be no question that there is a definite need for better trained Basketball officials.

The league will begin January 3rd, with a game between the Cardston and Raymond High School teams. January 10th, will see five games with two Lethbridge teams travelling and a game at Lethbridge between the Lethbridge Intermediates and Raymond Aggies.

I wish to thank you for the prominence you have given basketball in your paper.

This is the sort of publicity that will keep the game up and coming.

I trust that everything will run smoothly with our coming play offs and that our game will be worthy of high esteem and hearty support among Southern Alberta Sport fans.

Yours sincerely,

Chas. Asplund,

District Organizer.

Fascinating Links In Canada's History

There is a closed cabinet in the new wing of the Dominion Archives Building which contains four intensely interesting mementos of the early life in Canada. These are tunics, sash and stock worn by Brock when he fell fighting for his country in the year of 1812, and the shoes worn by General Wolf when he was a baby.

The tunic which belonged to Brock is of the flaming scarlet color which the warriors wore in those days. It is bound in black and has gold buttons. The bullet hole over the heart, is very noticeable, and it was the charge which was fatal to the brave soldier.

With the tunic was worn a plaid sash, which was a present from Tecumseh to Brock. He also wore a stock as it was called in those days, which reminds one of the Windsor ties worn by the school boys of about twenty years ago.

Brock's coat was sent to his relatives and in 1909 the Misses Tupper, nieces of Sir Isaac Brock, presented it to the Dominion Archives.

The little black kid shoes which were worn by General Wolfe were given by Mr. Thomas Wolfe, a relative of the generals, to his cousin John Channell, of Newcastle-on-Tyne and were presented by W. J. Priesman Atkinson, grandson of the latter, to the Archives in September 1908.

These little mementos of early history in Canada when seen as they were worn by these brave men, recall to mind the battles in which they engaged and the personal contact of seeing the tunic worn by Brock recalls the splendid achievements of a man who, when he was killed was in years, just a boy.

Some month by month, or probably day by day. These are the figures which will spur him on to new effort for the coming year.

What about the farmer? Can he, too, take off a balance sheet and figure out a budget for the coming year? How many farmers make up a budget to give some idea before and how much income there may be and how much outgo. If a farmer has been doing this for a number of years we have no doubt that, from the average, he could come somewhere near it in an average year. But with out several years figures as a guide he wouldn't get very far.

Perhaps the farm is going to produce 200 acres of wheat in 1930. There is that much ready for cropping. But the average yield may be 40 bushels, or it may be 20, or it may be only eight. And the price may be $2. a bushel, or it may be $1.25, or it may be only 60 cents. But in figuring out a budget a fair average at a fair price could be used as a basis. If the district is a good one, perhaps 30 bushels would be the right figure. If it is not so good then only 12 bushels would be better. A dollar a bushel would be a fair price. That would make a wheat return forecast of $4,000 from the 200 acres. What, in addition, will come in from the hogs, the chickens, the dairy cows, cattle or sheep?

And what will the outlay be? What are the old debts? How much are the taxes? What is the usual expenditure for labor, How much must go for machinery, How about the family budget?

After figuring these things out—roughly, it is true—the business man farmer ought to be in a better position to decide whether he can afford an addition to the house, whether to buy that new tractor he wants, whether to get a power washer for the women folks?

And do you know those figures, even if they are a thousand or more out at the end of the year, are an incentive to better farming and to more thrift in operating the farm. Ask any business man how closely he watches his sales as against the sales of the corresponding day or week the previous year. This is the barometer of his business. His decisions are largely based thereon. The farmer who wants to be a business man—and in these days the successful farmer pretty nearly has to be one—will set himself up some sort of a budget for the year, and he will find it a splendid guide in his operations.—Lethbridge Herald.

Gives Name to Rockies Pass

naming a pass in the mountains after him. Gibbon Pass has hitherto been anonymous and lies between Shadow Lake and the Twin Lakes, below Ball and Storm mountains in the valley of the Bow, midway between Banff and Lake Louise. Not far from travelled routes in the Rockies and located in one of their most picturesque sections, Gibbon Pass was actually discovered by Mr. Gibbon when he was planning the route to be taken by Trail Riders last summer and himself hiked over the trail between the two lakes.

The name was conferred recently by the Geographic Board of Canada in honor of Mr. Gibbon's work as poet, novelist, promoter of musical and folklore festivals and founder of the Order of Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies which numbers members from all parts of this continent, Europe and Australia and which has done inestimable work in bringing the glories of Canada to the knowledge of the world. Lay-Out shows the Pass, with inset of Mr. Gibbon and, below, close-up of group of Trail Riders.

OUR GOLDEN OPPORTUNITY—NOW

It has been stated times without number that "Opportunity knocks but once." We are of the opinion that Opportunity is knocking continually, and every sunrise sees a day filled with opportunities, without number. Opportunities to render more and better service to our fellowmen. Opportunities to improve ourselves in every way scholastically, physically and mentally. Opportunities to make our word as good as our bond to make our selves work to time and numerous things that come day after day as the real opportunities of life.

We have just commenced a New Year, and while we are not very strong for New Year's resolutions for this that and the other, it seems more or less natural to cast about at this time for an opportunity to launch out on a program of self-betterment. May we suggest, that spending collectively and not individually, we work long and thoroughly on a program of PUNCTUALITY.

Take a paper and pencil, today, and for one month, keep track of the time you waste, waiting for other people, waiting for meetings to start etc. taking for granted of course that you yourself are always on time. It is a community weakness, this being late. You may say there is no time lost because everyone comes late. But here is time lost. Even if one remains at home, ten or fifteen minutes because he figures the appointment will be that much late, he can't really get into any work, and spends it in hit or miss reading or similar manner and really does not accomplish anything, so that time is lost.

There are always a few possibly who can not get to meetings right on time, and there are always times when we cannot keep our appointments. But when we make appointments and do not endeavor to keep them we make ourselves out liars we waste our own time and worse still the time of others, and their time may be valuable, if ours is not.

It may be a good thing for presiding officers to start meetings on time even if they were alone, when time came, start. The idea of continually being late is first a habit, and we all have enough self pride that if we were late a few times, we would hurry a little faster particularly if it so happened that we were the only one late.

One of our most valuable gifts is the gift of time, and yet too many of us place no value on it, when in truth we should make every moment count.

THE MEDICAL ALMANAC

The discovery of the printing press has brought about a spread of knowledge which in turn has had a tremendous influence on human life. Through our newspapers we are kept informed of events all over the world, and we also learn through the newspapers and magazines as to what is being done in the various centres of research. These same papers and magazines are also used extensively as a means of bringing to our attention the goods which someone wants to sell. It may be that the merchant gets out a publication all his own, to advertise his own particular goods, and so it is that there is produced the medical almanac or some similar publication to place before the public in an attractive and interesting manner, some medical products which, generally speaking, claims to abolish most of the ills from which the human family suffers.

The proper adequate treatment of disease in its earliest stages is of the greatest importance to the person treated. There are some diseases which we call acute, and which suddenly strike without previous warning, but that is not true of most of the serious illnesses which attack mankind. Most serious diseases begin in a mild way and, unless treated, gradually progress to the point where they actually endanger life. The man with a serious heart condition today has been gradually developing this condition over a number of years. Kidney disease in its advanced stage is the result of a condition which has gone on for years.

This means that it is a serious thing to attempt to diagnose and treat your self because you feel that there is not much wrong with you and you do not need a doctor. The time when you need a doctor most is the time when he can do the most for you, and that is when you are in the early stages of disease. It is a mistake to attempt self-treatment. It may not do actual harm, but it postpones securing proper treatment which, in many cases prevent serious disease later.

RAW FUR PRODUCTION IN ALBERTA LAST YEAR VALUED AT $2,733,191.

Edmonton, Dec. 20.—Raw fur to the value of $2,473,191 was produced in Alberta in the fur season of 1928-29 according to a statement from the provincial game protection branch. This valuation was made by a grand total of 1,60,532 pelts, representing about 30 different varieties of native fur bearers.

The report of fur exports, also compiled by the government service shows that 1,22,693 pelts were sent out of the province, at a value of $3,871,797.

The squirrel led the list, with 606,005 pelts, valued at $121,201; followed by muskrats, 537,556 pelts, worth $645,067; ermine, 267,575 pelts, worth $401,362; rabbit, 193,461 pelts, $19,346; coyote, 24,315 pelts, $437,670; badger, 17,466 pelts, $384,252; silver fox, 2,097 pelts, $159,275; mink, 2,672 pelts, $40,080; skunk, 6,935 pelts, $17,642. FROST BITE

One day recently during the few days of below zero weather, a boy of sixteen, new comer to the west, was brought to a local hospital with both hands frozen white. He had been two months only in Canada and having come from Scotland did not know the danger of exposing his bare hands when the temperature was twenty eight below with a chill little wind blowing. However he knows now, and will take care in future.

For those new-comers to our Canadian West who have not yet weathered a Winter with us, this article is written. If nose, ears, fingers or toes lose feeling and appear a cold white, start friction with snow or a piece of ice at once, and keep it up until a pink glow appears in the affected part. If possible, put hands or feet in cold water and keep there for an hour or more and then use friction until circulation has been completely established. Never put in hot water, nor place near a fire.

A person found frozen to unconsciousness should be placed in a cold room and friction with cloth wrung out of ice cold water applied to body with hand friction to extremities. This to be kept up until circulation is re-established. Then patient is placed between warm blankets and given a hot drink.

PURCHASE 12 SNOW PLOWS FOR PROVINCE

Edmonton.—A tryout on the motor snow plows recently added to the equipment of the highways branch was given Monday on the road from Edmonton to Clyde, through St. Albert and Morinville, with satisfactory results. The same plow had already been used in clearing all the drifts from Calgary to Edmonton, which it did in two days.

Twelve snow plows have been purchased by the department of public works for this winter's road-clearing work, and will be distributed to different parts of the province. The plows are attached to four-wheel drive motor trucks, which give desired speed for the purpose of throwing the snow well to the side of the road. The trucks to be thus converted into snow fighters are used during the summer in hauling gravel.

USING DIESELS TO COMBAT BUS LINES

Ottawa, Dec. 31 (Special to the Recorder) — Operation of a Diesel driven railroad car has recently been tested by the Swedish Railroad Company, according to a report just issued.

The motor develops 150 horse power and can attain a speed of 65 kilometers per hour. A mechanical reduction gear is used. The car accommodates 72 seated and 25 standing passengers, and there is also a baggage room. The tanks have a capacity of 330 litres of fuel oil. It is claimed by those interested that the cost of operation is very low, and if this proves to be the case, several of the private Railroads in Sweden may use coaches of this type in an effort to meet the steadily, and rather rapidly increasing competition offered by the bus companies.

WHEN YOU SHOP IN A BIG CITY

You know your Fifth Avenue perhaps. Or all your life you've been familiar with the shopping sections of Boston--your certain just which side street to turn into for the specialty store you have in mind... But these days, you'll find your self at home wherever you shop. You'll not be at a loss to get exactly what you want in St. Louis or Seattle or Syracuse.

When you buy advertised products, you can buy just as wisely and do just as well---wherever you go---- as you would if you went into the store on Main street at home, where your mother and your grandmother have traded for years. For you can trust advertised products and the stores that sell them, exactly as you would believe merchants who have been your lifelong friends in the same small town.

Read the advertisements in this paper---especially if you are a stranger in town. They will guide and befriend your buying.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By Edson R. Waite
Last week when I was in Chicago the newspapers announced "bombs numbers 96, series of 1929." The average individual conceives his idea of a community from certain idiosyncrasies. Pineapple throwing is associated the public mind with Chicago's progress, and the average individual thinking of Chicago feels when he lands in the town that he ought not to carry any cash on his person, and every time he hears a taxicab back-firing he just naturally assumes that it is another bomb outrage.

I had not gone two blocks in my snorter through the business section when I ran into Homer Guck, who is an old newspaper friend. Mr. Guck is the president and publisher of the Chicago Herald and Examiner. I asked him if he bomb business had anything to do with newspaper circulation. He promptly took me in hand and after a pleasant lunch at the Standard Club, which is, by the way, as fine a club as I ever visited, gave over the rest of the day to correcting erroneous impressions in my mind relative to the fourth largest city in the world.

"Our bomb outrages and our gang warfare are really just growing pains of a husky civic development. The newspapers over-emphasize them. The real things which are contributing to the remarkable progress and development of metropolitan Chicago are too obvious to be noticed by our own papers, and a stranger like yourself is more likely to appreciate them."

"Of course, you know of the material growth of our community. The increase in population in the last nine years is 1,017,000. This is an addition of a city of the size of Cleveland. The amount of total commerce produced in Chicago every year includes five billion dollars of manufactured products, five billion dollars of wholesale trade and two billion dollars of retail trade. That's a billion dollars a month. That's more than the United States government spent in one hundred years, including the financing of the Civil War."

"Chicago adds one new factory every day and has been maintaining that ratio for two years, including Sundays and holidays. The actual figures show that there were 774 new factories in the last 730 days."

"Nothing can stop Chicago. The population will be eight millions before 1950. Today we are close to five millions."

I have just recited a few of the important material things called to my attention by Mr. Guck. These material evidences of prosperity and commercial achievement are insignificant compared to the evidences of a fine civic consciousness.

THE SETTLER'S FRIEND

To many an one who crosses the sea to find a home in foreign parts, there is a great appeal in the Dominion of Canada, with its free life and boundless opportunities. Landing at the ports of St. John or Quebec or Halifax, the stranger has the first taste of the new life with all its new ways and conditions as he disembarks at the busy ports. But there is a welcome awaiting him of which he was not aware. Among the many Societies interested in the newcomers and their welfare, there stands pre-eminently the Canadian Red Cross. Port Nurseries are in full swing throughout the year, and many a thousand strangers pass through the friendly rooms fragrant with hot tea, and filled with tired families of Mothers, Fathers and travelstained children. The Red Cross Nurses have their hands full with many and varied duties. Refreshments first and foremost for the little folk at small tables. Advice to the anxious mothers as to the care and the health of ailing one. Assistance to a worried looking father with much baggage and a perplexed look as he thinks of a week on the train with his large family. Life to the Nurse at the Port holds much of the sterner stuff, as she extends to the new Canadians their first words of welcome to this new land.

Cards are written bearing the names of each family, and their destination Alberta has had her fair share of these settlers under one scheme or another. Hence it comes about that many women have written home telling their friends that they got a wonderful reception in Canada from the Red Cross and in describing the various kind services in the Nursery, have called the Society by the fitting name of "The Settler's Friend." Visits are paid to families by Red Cross workers and in case of the sickness of the children, steps are taken to see that the necessary care is forthcoming. This further follow-up often results in a life long friendship between the newcomers and their provincial Red Cross, and in many cases the friendship shown is returned an hundredfold and thus passed on to others.

STAKE PRIESTHOOD MEETING

Sunday, Dec. 29 Stake Board Meetings of all of the Auxiliaries were held and the regular Stake Priesthood Meeting at 3:45.

In the absence of Pres. H. S. Allen in Utah, Pres. O. H. Snow presided and called on Mrs. T. J. O'Brien for a brief report of the Relief Society work of the Stake, Mrs. L. D. King the Stake Y.L.M.I.A., Mrs. C. Bacon the Stake Primary, T. Geo. Wood the Sunday Schools of the Stake; C. R. Wing the Stake Y.M.M.I.A.; and Earl P. Tanner the Genealogical Committee work of the Taylor Stake.

Several items of business were taken up, and it was announced that the missionary work of the Stake would be left to the Seventies Quorums of the Stake and they would make a monthly report to the Stake Presidency.

Pres. J. W. Evans, speaking for the Stake felt that every Stake Officer was ready and willing to do everything that was required of them, and that the Stake was amongst the best in the Church.

WORLD-WIDE CENSUS OF AGRICULTURE TO BE READY DURING 1930.

Ottawa Dec. 27—Special to The Recorder—The results of the first world wide census of agriculture will begin to be available in the winter of 1930 and the League of Nations and the International Institute of Agriculture plan to have the world agriculture census repeated decennially.

Definite preparations for taking their censuses early in 1930 are reported by 70 countries, including the principal agricultural counties of the world, and about 100 other countries have promised to participate in the census, although they have not reported what action has been taken to assure the taking of the census.

In all, promises of cooperation by responsible government officials were obtained for countries and their dependencies comprising more than 97 p.c. of the land surface, 98 p.c. of the population, and 99 p.c. of the total agricultural and livestock production of the world.

The success of the world agricultural census now depends upon the various governments which have promised cooperation in this great undertaking. The results of this world-wide census will begin to be available in the winter of 1930.

HOOFING KING IN MOVIE TONE

LEE TRACY FROM BROADWAY
STAGE KNOWS THE WAYS OF HOOVER CREW

Lee Tracey, the King of Broadway hoofers, who portrays the role of "Eddie Burns," the egotistical small time hoover in "BIG TIME," the all talking Fox Movietone Picture of backstage and behind the motion picture studio sets drama, recently declared that he is in deep sympathy with the character he enacts.

"Eddie Burns" complex was the antithesis of inferiority. He regarded himself as the greatest guy in the world and entertained no thought other than that he was made in God's image and that no person on earth had anything on him.

"Of course, there is such a thing as superiority complex and Eddie Burns was one of its victims, but I have more respect for the man who asserts himself than I have for the person who permits an inferiority complex to smite him to earth without a protest.

Tracey is featured in this drama of backstage life with its heartaches and triumphs. Daphne Pollard, diminutive comedienne and Stepin Fetchit, the darkie comic of many Movie tone successes, furnish the comedy of which there is plenty.

Mae Clarke, recruited from the New York Stage, portrays the feminine lead and Josephine Dunn also has an important part. Kenneth Hawks screen directed and A. H. Van Buren stage directed the production which is the hit Saturday at the Capitol Theatre this week.
